Tulip Collections and Special Offers

OUR bulb collections have always been popular and have proven very satisfactory to all that have purchased and grown them. Although they are sold at a less price than the named varieties they contain only the more select kinds, and only top size bulbs. We are enabled to make these offers for the reason that, we can equalize our stocks to better advantage, and often include choice and higher priced varieties which do not sell so readily. This does not mean that we use undesirable kinds, as we are careful not to stock anything of this sort. Each collection is carefully made up with varieties that will give the greatest range of color and display and, we feel confident, will please the most exacting.

We again want to emphasize the fact that only the very top size bulbs are used, and also the bargains that are offered in these collections.

DARWIN TULIP COLLECTIONS

We offer these first because we have found they are the most popular with our customers. GRULLEMANNI TULIPS

These newly developed tulips have created a sensation among tulip growers in Holland, as well as at the shows in Berlin, London, Stockholm and wherever shown.

The coloration of the large flowers is quite unique, with the ground color varying from white and cream to soft yellow. The broad petals are feathered and veined very prettily in various shades of pink, scarlet and carmine which suffuses the whole flower as it ages. The large base or center is deep violet-blue or black with an outside zone of contrasting color. The inside shows a changing contrast with the outside as the flower opens which reminds one of the changing colors of a chameleon. The flowers are borne on tall, thin and graceful, wiry stems.

We are enabled to offer these tulips at a greatly reduced price this season although the stock is still very small.

DARWIN TULIPS

THE Darwins are the most popular of all Tulips as a class and the best known. The beautiful large flowers in their brilliant and intense deep colors make a gorgeous display in the garden and are unsurpassed by any other flowers.

Among the many colors and shades the reds and pink predominate, but rich purples shading into deep maroon and nearly black are found among them. There are some variations from these colors, but other colors will be found mostly among the Breeder and Cottage Tulips.

The list of Darwins offered on this page covers the whole range of colors, and the most superior kind in their respective shades. The bulbs we offer are all "TOP SIZE," the kind that produce results. We handle only the best and largest size bulbs, we do not, and will not handle the culls and inferior grades that are so often offered by concerns who are ignorant of quality, which is essential in bulbs.

BREEDER TULIPS

THEY are so called because they comprise the old original or mother tulips that were favorites in Holland centuries ago, and from which many of the improved newer types and classes have been bred and developed.

The habit of growth is strong and robust. Their size and great lasting qualities make them unusually well suited for the garden.

A remarkable variation of rich color tones will be found among the breeders, many so termed pastel shades will be found among them, but the predominating color tones are rich bronze, buff, golden yellow and purples, many of these shades being beautifully blended in the same flower. Many of these fine large flowers are overlaid with a silvery sheen or bloom, such as is seen on fruits. Many of them are sweet scented.

Their flowering period is approximately the same time as the Darwins, although very few of them will flower as early as the first Darwins. Beautiful color schemes can be made up with Breeders and the Darwins, they are approximately of the same height and with the additional colors in this class there is no desired color lacking to create a beautiful picture in the garden.

The figure following the variety name indicates the relative time of blooming.

NARCISSI—DAFFODILS

NARCISSI comprise a large and varied family of bulbous plants. Confusion often arises about the proper names when referring to the different types. Narcissi is the proper family name for Daffodils, Jonquils, Bi-Colors, Paetaz and similar designations in common use. The large yellow trumpet varieties are generally regarded as Daffodils, the small cupped kinds are commonly termed Jonquils, the white and clustered flowered are just referred to as Narcissi without further distinction. Else-

Culture of Narcissi

Narcissi prefer a partially sheltered location, where best results will be obtained. They will, however, thrive in most any reasonable situation, continuing to increase from year to year.

Plant the larger bulbs so that the tops are about six inches under the surface, smaller bulbs slightly less. BUT it is essential for best results TO PLANT THEM EARLY. Narcissi need a longer period for the development of roots in the fall than other kinds of bulbs. Late plantings are often disappointing.

Cover rather heavily with straw or leaves before severe freezing weather sets in. The covering should be removed as early as snow and ice will permit.

Indoor culture of Narcissi varies with the variety, some may be grown in receptacles containing water and pebbles, but all kinds may be grown in pots and treated in the same manner as Hyacinths. (See directions on page 13.)

NOTE—The bulbs we offer are without exception TOP SIZE "MOTHER BULBS," the largest bulbs procurable, and will produce several flowers each.

SUPERB HYACINTHS

GROWING Hyacinths is a very simple matter indeed, and a great deal of pleasure may be derived from watching the development of the bright cheery, sweetly scented flowers during winter days. No other bulb flower is easier to grow indoors.

INDOOR CULTURE

For planting in soil use any kind of a pot that has drainage. Ordinary clay pots are preferable and ordinary soil with a little sand mixed into it make it more porous. Place a broken piece of crock over the hole in the bottom so as to insure free drainage. Fill in enough soil so that when placing the bulb the top will be about an inch below the level of the top of the pot, fill in soil and cover bulb firmly, leaving plenty of space below rim for watering. Use 4 to 5 inch pots for the larger bulbs when planting them singly. A number of smaller bulbs planted in wider shallow pots is very satisfactory. After potting, water thoroughly and place in a cool, dark place and leave until a number of roots show on outside of soil when it is tipped out of pot. When several roots show through, it is then safe to bring them into the light where they are to grow.

Hyacinths may also be grown in glasses or bowls of water. The bulb should be placed so that the bottom just touches the water, and enough water added occasionally to keep it at the proper level. Hyacinths grown in water should also be kept cool and dark until plenty of roots have developed.

When bringing them into the light where they are to grow, better results will be obtained by growing them cool. A window sill or sunroom is best.

OUTDOOR CULTURE

Plant Hyacinths so that top of bulb is about five inches under the surface, water thoroughly, and cover with leaves or coarse straw before severe cold weather sets in. Covering for Hyacinths should be quite heavy. Remove covering as early as snow and ice will permit, but if already sprouted it is well to replace a little of the covering to keep the direct rays of the sun away, this is to prevent harm from the sudden change.

NOTE—We call your attention to the greatly reduced prices of Hyacinths this year, and especially the fine quality of the bulbs.

These are a size smaller bulbs, 16 to 17 Cm. We offer these unnamed but in separate colors. These Hyacinths will produce large spikes of flowers and are desirable for both indoor and outdoor culture. These are larger than the ordinary bedding size, and are often offered as first size Hyacinths.
